NFL superstar Odell Beckham Jr. has been accused of raping a woman in a bombshell lawsuit filed against disgraced music mogul Sean 'Diddy' Combs.

Ashley Parham filed an initial lawsuit against Diddy - who is currently imprisoned on federal charges of racketeering conspiracy, sex trafficking and transportation to engage in prostitution - last October, accusing the rapper and businessman of 'violently gang raping' her at an Orinda, California home in March 2018.

The document also alleges kidnapping and sex trafficking, while Diddy was also previously accused of sexually assaulting Parham with a TV remote.

Parham, as well as two other plaintiffs identified only as Jane Doe and John Doe, have now amended that suit to include Beckham and comedian Druski (real name Drew Desbordes).

In a statement to DailyMail.com, Diddy's lawyers vehemently denied the allegations and said that their client wasn't at the Orinda, California home at the time of the alleged events.

Beckham and Druski have also denied the allegations in statements posted to social media.

'This new complaint – brought by an attorney who has already been sued for defaming Mr. Combs – demonstrates the depraved lengths plaintiffs will travel to garner headlines in pursuit of a payday,' the statement from Diddy's lawyers began.

'Mr. Combs was nowhere near Orinda, California on the day Ms. Parham claims she was assaulted there, and the Contra Costa Sheriff's Department has already confirmed Ms. Parham's claims were determined to be unfounded following a thorough investigation.

'In an attempt to salvage her claims following the investigation debunking them, Ms. Parham has now invented an even wilder narrative, alleging a vast (and facially implausible) conspiracy between law enforcement, local civilians, and media industry players.

'Her far-fetched tale contains it all: fake cops, cash bribes, and an alleged victim of the late Michael Jackson who was purportedly kidnapped across state lines and forced to "sign paperwork at gun point" while shepherded through a web of "safe houses".

'No sane person reading this complaint could credit this story. Mr. Combs looks forward to having his day in court where these lies – and the perverse motives of those who told them – will be revealed.'

Posting on X in response to Druski's statement, Beckham said: 'Boy I'll tell u what.

This world makes absolutely no sense. I am covered by God. He will prevail. I know who am I, I know who you are, keep your head. That name will be cleared. S* stupid.'

He added in a later statement: 'I have been informed of the allegations about me in a suit in CA. I really can't even believe that my name is mentioned in that matter. There is absolutely no truth to those allegations.'

'I do not know and have never met the person that filed the suit. I was not anywhere near Orinda, CA at that time. In fact, I don't think I have ever even been to Orinda, CA. I have never done anything like that, and I would never do anything like that to anyone. I'm confident that these ridiculous claims against me will be dismissed.'

Druski called the allegations a 'fabricated lie' in a statement posted to his Instagram story.

'I wasn't a public figure in 2018 - I was broke living with my mom without any connections to the entertainment industry at the time of this allegation, so the inclusion of my name is truly outlandish,' he wrote.

'My heart breaks for actual victims of abuse, but I'm fully confident that the evidence will expose this falsehood and the individuals who are maliciously trying to game the legal system to peddle false narratives.'

Druski said on a podcast last year that he had been to one of Diddy's parties. 'I wasn't at one of them parties,' he added.

Jane Doe and John Doe - who are mother and son - were allegedly witnesses of the gang rape of Parham - and knew Diddy 'through their connections in the music industry,' as John Doe was previously a Plaintiff who accused Michael Jackson of sexual assault against a minor.

According to the lawsuit, Beckham was previously identified in the original suit as 'Defendant Doe Cornelius (Cornelius is the athlete's middle name, and he was referred to as such during the alleged ordeal by other defendants). Parham later discovered that person was Beckham.

John Doe is alleged to have overheard Diddy and Beckham discussing business and a plan to have Parham return to New York with the NFL player, who played for the New York Giants at the time.

The lawsuit also states that Druski (previously identified as Defendant Doe as well) was instructed to rape Parham by Diddy, and did so.

Before raping Parham, Druski allegedly 'doused Plaintiff with more oil/lubricant' and then jumped on top of their body 'treating it like a slip and slide and knocking the wind out of Plaintiff due to his enormous size.'

Diddy and Druski are alleged to have been 'manically and hysterically laughing' at one point during the ordeal.

Parham's body became 'more and more limp over the course of the violent rape' until she lost control of her body, the lawsuit said.

It is also said in the lawsuit that the actions of Diddy, Beckham, Druski and the other defendants caused 'physical injury' and 'severe mental and emotional distress' to Parham.

After Druski allegedly raped Parham, she was forced by Diddy to take a pill before he, Beckham and Druski went to the backyard to smoke marijuana and cigarettes, the lawsuit says.

Parham - whose appearance has remained anonymous - later told NewsNation of how she ran at Diddy with a knife and considered slashing him, describing it as 'a kill or be killed situation' before she decided not to stab him and escape.

Diddy was also accused in the initial lawsuit of at one point threatening to slash Parham's face with a knife. The alleged threat was described as retaliation for a previous remark from Parham on a video call, in which she intimated that he was involved with the death of Tupac Shakur in 1996.

Diddy's lawyers have denied the allegations and said Parham was trying to get a pay day allegedly trafficked from Las Vegas to various locations in California, eventually ending up at the home in Orinda, California where the gang-rape is said to have happened.

Parham also claims that Diddy offered her money as she was trying to escape, in exchange for saying that the rape was actually consensual.

Ultimately, Parham managed to get out as she fled to a neighbor's property, though it is alleged that gunshots were fired towards her as she escaped Diddy's home.

Plaintiffs John and Jane Doe were also able to escape.

Parham allegedly went to a hospital and also filed a police report to the Contra Costa Sheriff's Department, who have not charged Diddy or anyone else allegedly involved that day.

John and Jane Doe were allegedly kidnapped by an associate of Diddy's as they walked to their vehicle at their residence in Vegas.

In addition to witnessing Parham be assaulted, they allegedly observed Parham having an IUD placed in her vagina by two other defendants.

ODELL BECKHAM JR. ACCUSED OF SEXUAL BATTERY IN DIDDY LAWSUIT

BY MICHAEL

Odell Beckham Jr. was named in a California lawsuit for alleged involvement in a sexual assault.

Odell Beckham (<https://www.sportico.com/t/odell-beckham/>)

Jr. was sued last Friday in a California federal court for allegations that he, along with Sean “Diddy” Combs and several others, partook in a “gang rape” of a woman in 2018.

Beckham, Diddy and 11 others are defendants in an amended complaint filed by Ashley Parham and an anonymous mother and son, Jane Doe and John Doe, who were allegedly kidnapped by a defendant posing as law enforcement and witnessed the rape. Parham originally filed her lawsuit last October, and at the time, she did not identify Beckham by name.

The complaint asserts that in February 2018, Parham met Shane Pearce, a restaurant manager and acquaintance of Diddy, in California. Parham says that to impress her, Pearce FaceTimed Diddy. The move backfired, however, when Parham told Pearce that she wasn’t impressed he knew Diddy. Also, Diddy allegedly took offense to Parham suggesting he “had something to do” with the murder of Tupac Shakur.

A month later Parham visited Pearce at his apartment in Orinda, Calif. While Parham was there, she says Diddy arrived along with several other defendants, among them the actor Drew Desbordes, better known as Druski. Parham contends Diddy immediately “antagonized” her over her comment that he was involved in Tupac’s death. Parham says the antagonization escalated with Diddy threatening to attack her with a knife while another person with Diddy said they could “sell” her.

Parham, who is represented by attorneys Shawn Perez and Ariel Mitchell, says she was then raped by multiple men, including Beckham, and drugged. Diddy, according to Parham, also warned her that no one would believe her, and that if she told anyone Diddy would make sure her family was harmed. Her retelling of events also says that while escaping, she used a knife to graze Diddy in the abdomen. Parham also claims she was shot at. As Parham tells it, law enforcement did not seriously investigate the incident and did not bring charges.

The complaint describes Beckham as part of a group who inflicted criminal acts on Parham. The complaint says Parham did not know who Beckham was at the time but found out later. He is described as smoking marijuana and cigarettes, being called “Cornelius” by other group members and having a business conversation with Diddy during which the two men discussed Parham going with Beckham to New York. At the time, Beckham played for the New York Giants.

Beckham, like the other defendants, is accused of sexual battery, sexual assault, sexual harassment, racketeering, intentional infliction of emotional distress, false imprisonment and related claims.

Parham seeks monetary damages that would reflect physical injury, severe mental and emotional distress, pain and suffering, mental anguish and loss of enjoyment of life. The case is before U.S. District Judge Rita F. Lin.

Attorneys for Diddy have denied Parham's accusations, maintained Diddy was not in Orinda, Calif., on the day of the incident and stressed that police investigated and did not bring charges. Diddy is currently jailed at the Metropolitan Detention Center in Brooklyn, N.Y., on sex trafficking and racketeering criminal charges unrelated to the Parham lawsuit. He awaits a trial scheduled to start in May, and if convicted, could face a life sentence.

Like the other defendants, Beckham, 32, will have the opportunity to answer Parham's complaint and deny the allegations. The three-time Pro Bowler played sparingly for the Miami Dolphins last season, when he caught nine passes in nine games. The Dolphins waived Beckham last December and he has not joined another team.

In a statement to Variety on Monday, representatives for Combs said in part: “This new complaint – brought by an attorney who has already been sued for defaming Mr. Combs – demonstrates the depraved lengths plaintiffs will travel to garner headlines in pursuit of a payday. Mr. Combs was nowhere near Orinda, California on the day Ms. Parham claims she was assaulted there, and the Contra Costa Sheriff’s Department has already confirmed Ms. Parham’s claims were determined to be unfounded following a thorough investigation. ... Mr. Combs looks forward to having his day in court where these lies – and the perverse motives of those who told them – will be revealed.”

The lawsuit describes the alleged incident in gruesome detail, claiming that it took place after Pearce had invited Parham into his apartment, asking for assistance with cancer medications that he was too weak to administer himself. He allegedly left the front door unlocked, which allowed Diddy and multiple associates to enter and assault Parham. Diddy had allegedly said at the end of the earlier Facetime call that Parham would “pay” for her Tupac comments.

After Diddy and others

allegedly assaulted Parham, she left the apartment wearing just a large T-shirt, carrying a knife that had earlier been used to threaten her. After comments from Diddy and his associates, who were casually smoking in the yard, she allegedly stabbed Diddy in the back, resulting in gunshots being fired.

In the ensuing confusion, she fled the scene and encountered a man who claimed to be a law-enforcement official but was actually one of Diddy's associates impersonating one. She escaped that individual and encountered a Contra Costa County Sheriff, who she claimed was later handed an envelope, which she believed contained cash. Contra Costa County representatives have declined comment, according to the lawsuit.

Combs, 55, is awaiting trial in New York on charges of sex trafficking and racketeering, which he has denied. The trial is scheduled to begin on May 5.

Last month, his lawyer Anthony Ricco filed a motion to resign, saying “under no circumstances can I continue.”

Police chief accused of helping cover up gang rape allegedly carried out by Sean 'Diddy' Combs, Odell Beckham Jr. and comedian Druski: lawsuit

Maui's police chief has been accused in a bombshell court filing of helping to cover up a gang rape allegedly carried out by Sean "Diddy" Combs, NFL star Odell Beckham Jr. and comedian Druski.

Police Chief John Pelletier is accused of trying to conceal the violent attack on one of Combs' accusers, Ashley Parham, after it was reported in 2018, according to an amended lawsuit filed in Northern California federal court.

The police chief and the celebrities accused of carrying out the attack have all strenuously denied the allegations.

Mau Chief of Police John Pelletier is accused of engaging in a Diddy cover-up when he was a Las Vegas police captain.

Then a police captain in Las Vegas, Pelletier is accused of posing as a Contra Costa sheriff's deputy when he responded to a 911 call about the alleged sexual attack at a home in Orinda, Calif., the court papers charge.

The accuser claims a neighbor — who she believed at the time was a good Samaritan — called cops after she fled the home in the wake of the alleged gang rape.

"Pelletier, falsely posing as a Contra Costa Sheriff, told [the alleged victim] and the neighbor that they had received several noise complaints prior to the neighbor's call and instructed [Parham] to find a way to get home," the filing states.

amended filing.

“We are confident that the evidence will demonstrate these claims to be false and will expose those who are deliberately trying to manipulate the legal system to spread misleading narratives,” a spokesperson for Pelletier said.

The attack was carried out with NFL star Odell Beckham Jr. and comedian Druski, the lawsuit claims.

The initial suit claimed Combs threatened her with a knife and used a TV remote to rape the alleged victim in an apparent revenge attack after the woman had suggested a month earlier that the disgraced music mogul was involved in Tupac Shakur's murder.

She alleges in the suit that a handful of other men then took turns raping her.

The attackers allegedly referred to Beckham as "Cornelius," the amended lawsuit states, noting the 32-year-old athlete's middle name is Cornelious.

"[The alleged victim] has come to discover the Defendant Doe Cornelius who raped her was Defendant Odell," the lawsuit alleges.

Beckham said in a statement on X late Tuesday that he couldn't "even believe that my name is mentioned in that matter."

"There is absolutely no truth to those allegations," he stated firmly. “I do not know and have never met the person that filed the suit.”

“I have never done anything like that, and I would never do anything like that to anyone,” he added. “I’m confident that these ridiculous claims against me will be dismissed.”

Elsewhere, Druski, whose real name is Drew Desbordes, is accused of putting oil on Parham’s naked body before “treating it like a slip and slide and knocking the wind out of [Parham] due to his enormous size,” the filing claims.

Druski then stopped himself from falling off the bed and allegedly raped Parham, the papers state.

Druski called it a “fabricated lie.”

“I wasn’t even a public figure in 2018 — I was broke living with my mom without any connections to the entertainment industry at the time of this allegation, so the inclusion of my name is truly outlandish,” he wrote on X.

Combs, for his part, has long denied the numerous claims leveled against him.

“This new complaint — brought by an attorney who has already been sued for defaming Mr. Combs — demonstrates the depraved lengths plaintiffs will travel to garner headlines in pursuit of a payday,” the rapper’s attorneys said in the wake of the amended suit.

“Mr. Combs was nowhere near Orinda, California on the day Ms. Parham claims she was assaulted there, and the Contra Costa Sheriff’s Department has already confirmed Ms. Parham's claims were determined to be unfounded following a thorough investigation."

"In an attempt to salvage her claims following the investigation debunking them, Ms. Parham has now invented an even wilder narrative, alleging a vast [and facially implausible] conspiracy between law enforcement, local civilians, and media industry players," the attorneys added.

"Mr. Combs looks forward to having his day in court where these lies — and the perverse motives of those who told them — will be revealed."

The Bad Boy Records founder was slapped with federal sex-trafficking charges last September.

Since his arrest, a flurry of civil lawsuits has also been filed against the rapper alleging abuse dating back decades.

Combs, who has pleaded not guilty to the federal charges, is being held without bail in federal custody in Brooklyn ahead of his trial in May.

Sean 'Diddy' Combs: Suit names new celebrities, new photos in Orinda gang-rape allegations

By Lisa Fernandez | Updated March 17, 2025 7:08am PDT | Orinda | KTVU FOX 2 |

ORINDA, Calif. - WARNING: The allegations in this story are sexually explicit and violent in nature and may be disturbing to some readers. If you are a survivor of sexual assault and need assistance, please contact the National Sexual Assault Hotline at 800-656-4673.

The Brief

- An amended lawsuit names NFL player Odell Beckham Jr. and comedian Druski along with Sean "Diddy" Combs as defendants.
- Ashley Parham alleges she was gang-raped in Orinda in 2018.
- Beckham and Druski responded on social media saying the claims against them are "outlandish" and lies.

An amended lawsuit filed by a Bay Area woman alleges that more celebrities were allegedly involved in what she describes as a gang rape in Orinda involving rapper Sean "Diddy" Combs, who is being held in federal detention in New York on sex-trafficking criminal charges.

Diddy has pleaded not guilty to those crimes, where he faces a trial in May, and denied the specific allegations listed in this particular lawsuit, originally filed by plaintiff Ashley Parham in October in U.S. District Court in San Francisco, and amended on March 13.

"No sane person reading this complaint could credit this story," Combs' legal team told the entertainment site, People.com.

Parham alleged that Combs and two other men gang-raped her in 2018.

The amended lawsuit names new people who were allegedly involved in Parham's allegations, including NFL player Odell Beckham Jr. and comedian Druski.

The suit also shows photos of several of the defendants.

Parham is being represented by Shawn Perez in Nevada and Ariel Mitchell in Florida. Combs' legal team is suing Mitchell for defamation.

Parham's suit alleges that she was raped in Orinda in 2018 as payback for her mentioning that Combs might have been involved in Tupac's murder years ago.

Parham alleged Druski poured a lubricant on her before using her body like a "slip and slide" and that a man others kept calling "Cornelius," but who is really Beckham, also had sex with her against her will, according to the lawsuit. Combs also allegedly raped her, she claimed, and "violently inserted" a TV remote into her vagina, the suit states.

On social media, both Beckham and Druski denied any wrongdoing.

"There is absolutely no truth to those allegations. I do not know and have never met the person that filed the suit. I was not anywhere near Orinda, CA at that time. In fact, I don't think I have ever been to Orinda, CA."

Druski, real name Drew Desbordes, was also accused of raping Parham in the lawsuit. He called the allegation "a fabricated lie."

"I wasn't a public figure in 2018 — I was broke living with my mom without any connections to the entertainment industry at the time of this allegation, so the inclusion of my name is truly outlandish," Desbordes wrote. "My heart breaks for actual victims of abuse, but I'm fully confident that the evidence will expose this falsehood and the individuals who are maliciously trying to game the legal system to peddle false narratives."

Not only is Combs facing criminal charges, he also faces more than 30 lawsuits from women accusing him of sex crimes.

KTVU does not typically name survivors of sexual assault, but her name is public in a lawsuit and her lawyer said she only files cases when the women's names are public.

Parham has declined an interview with KTVU through her lawyers.

The Contra Costa County Sheriff's Office previously told KTVU that they investigated the matter and found no evidence of a crime.

Parham's original lawsuit was almost dismissed as her lawyers hadn't served Combs the proper summons in time, but they were given an extension until this month.

Druski is still going viral for his hilarious skits, but more recent updates in his career are no laughing matter. For those unaware, he faces accusations in a lawsuit from a woman named Ashley Parham who alleged that he, Diddy, and Odell Beckham Jr. sexually assaulted her in 2018.

The comedian denies these allegations outright, and per AllHipHop, he and his legal team seek sanctions against Parham's lawyers Ariel Mitchell and Sean Perez. He claims they fabricated a baseless case with many contradictions and impossible alleged facts.

"Instead of conducting the legally-required diligence, Ms. Mitchell and her co-counsel, Sean Perez, recklessly put forth a story in which [Druski] – at the time a broke waiter in Georgia – somehow ended up in Orinda, California with a slew of celebrities he had not yet met in an attack supposedly orchestrated as revenge for Ms. Parham's offhand comment that Sean Combs killed Tupac," Druski's attorney David Grossman stated.

"Less than a month after the alleged attack, Ms. Parham herself told the police that she was attacked by Mr. Pearce and his 'twin,' another thin white man she had previously met," Grossman added. "A year later, she declared under penalty of perjury that story was true. She had been attacked by Mr. Pearce and his friend."

Per Grossman, Druski only appeared as a suspect in this lawsuit once it gained massive media attention. Before that, there was nothing tying him to the accusations in Parham's initial legal pursuits.

Also, the Maryland native's legal team alleged that attorneys Perez and Mitchell conducted a photo lineup with Parham after they filed a complaint. According to the defense, this puts the veracity of the identification process into question.

Druski's legal team wants the court to hit Perez and Mitchell with monetary sanctions, cover attorney's fees, and a complete dismissal of the case. We will see what they decide.

Elsewhere, the Coulda Been creative has a net worth of a million dollars (per The Success Bug) to further fuel his career and ventures. But this legal action is still in the way. We will see in due time what the court decides.

Druski's Lawyer Exposes Timeline Flaws in Sexual Assault Suit Connected to Diddy

By Rovelyn Barba

In new filings, Druski's legal team requested the court penalize attorneys Ariel Mitchell and Sean Perez, accusing them of "recklessly" submitting a fabricated lawsuit on behalf of plaintiff Ashley Parham.

The suit alleges that Druski, along with Diddy and NFL player Odell Beckham Jr., sexually assaulted Parham in Orinda, California, during an incident allegedly sparked by a comment linking Diddy to the death of Tupac Shakur.

According to the complaint, Diddy allegedly directed Druski to attack Parham, and the filing includes disturbing claims regarding Druski's actions during the alleged encounter.

on top of Plaintiff's naked and oiled body, treating it like a slip and slide and knocking the wind out of Plaintiff due to his enormous size," the lawsuit states, as per AllHipHop.

"Defendant Druski then caught himself from sliding over Plaintiff's oiled body and off the bed; he then began raping Plaintiff vaginally."

Druski, whose real name is Drew Desbordes, denies ever being present at the alleged incident and says the timeline contradicts his whereabouts at the time.

His attorney, David Grossman, wrote in court documents that in 2018, Desbordes was a 23-year-old waiter in Georgia with no connections to the other defendants or the California location.

"Instead of conducting the legally-required diligence, Ms. Mitchell and her co-counsel, Sean Perez, recklessly put forth a story in which [Druski]—at the time a broke waiter in Georgia—somehow ended up in Orinda, California with a slew of celebrities he had not yet met in an attack supposedly orchestrated as revenge for Ms. Parham's offhand comment that Sean Combs killed Tupac," Grossman stated.

The legal filing also referenced earlier police records and sworn statements by Parham, which allegedly contradict her current claims.

Grossman noted that Parham previously identified two different individuals as her attackers.

"Less than a month after the alleged attack, Ms. Parham herself told the police that she was attacked by Mr. Pearce and his 'twin,' another thin white man she had previously met," Grossman wrote.

"A year later, she declared under penalty of perjury that story was true—she had been attacked by Mr. Pearce and his friend."

According to Grossman, Druski's name did not surface until after the lawsuit had garnered media attention.

He added that the plaintiff's attorneys conducted a photo lineup with Parham only after filing the complaint, raising questions about the reliability of the identification process.

Druski's legal team is asking the court to dismiss the case, order the plaintiff to pay attorney's fees, and impose monetary penalties against Mitchell and Perez for what they claim is a misuse of the court system.

The court has not yet ruled on the request for sanctions.

Parham's attorneys have not publicly responded to the motion. Combs and Beckham Jr. have also denied the allegations.
